A HIDEOUS INSULT.

On Friday P.M., the Daily Bulletin stated that it had intelligence that Mr. Blount had orders to replace the deposed Queen upon the throne; that whatever violent denials were made, its information was correct; and that as its former intelligence had proved reliable that the American flag would be removed, so would this last prove true.

E. C. Macfarlane, just arrived, did at a laud on the same evening, make loud proclamation to the same effect, to the natives and others assembled. As the consequence the royalists were greatly elated, and the very active annexation movement among the natives received a check through fear. This morning, the natives were circulating the rumor that the Queen was to be restored to-day.

We do not believe the Bulletin, because such a thing is incredible in the nature of the case. We regard it as a bravado for the purpose of intimidating native annexationists. But we are not going to expend our strength in denial. We herein will only denounce the foul insult of which the Bulletin and Mr. Macfarlane are guilty.

It is implied by them that the forces of the United States are to be employed to restore the discredited regime which this civilized community, after long endurance, has cast out; a restoration which, if achieved, would have to be by outside force. Unless crushed by that force, our people will permit no such dishonor.

The thing proposed is, to replace over this clean, refined, civilized community the ex-Queen with her two personal favorites, re-establishing them in the high offices from which the indignation of our outraged people expelled them three months ago. The honorable men and women of Hawaii had long striven to shut their eyes and close their nostrils to the filth of that court. Now that the whole of that garbage has become spread out to the world, we are told by our insulters that we are expected again to pay our humble respects to that exalted Triple Alliance, and to compete again for its favor, withal, no doubt, accepting such penalties as it may mete out to us for our contumacy. This contains the elements of "The inexplicable wrong, the unutterable shame, That turns the coward's heart to steel, the sluggard's blood to flame."

It is an insult to Mr. Blount, to speak of him as capable of such an act. It is supposed that when the deed is done, he and his are to advance and pay their devotions to the unspeakable trio? What an atrocious insult this is to him!

It is especially an insult to the officers and men of the United States ships of war, to talk of their being employed in such a revolutionary task.

Above all, it is a deadly insult to the people of the United States, to talk of remanding their noble American Colony in Hawaii, so high in character, in culture, in patriotic sacrifice for civilized constitutional government, back under that loathsome and paralyzing regime which it had expelled.

It will not be done. The authors of this insult who propose this deed will sink away and be forgotten. Were they indeed able to carry it into effect, the scorn of all civilized men would pursue them to the last hour and the lowest pit.

SELF-IMPOSED LAW.

It is quite true that each step in the development of civilized government in Hawaii has not only been taken or induced by foreigners, but that a large and powerful Hawaiian element was constantly opposed to such innovations on their ancient ways. Law as known to the Hawaiian early chiefs meant the absence of law, and the gratification of their personal whims. Many of those chiefs did not take kindly to the limitation of their traditional control over the land and persons of the common people which was made by the first

Bill of Rights declared at Lahaina in 1839, or by the Constitution made by Kamehameha III. in 1852. That chief is said to have declared at that time that he reserved to himself the right to change the Constitution. He did not attempt to do so, but Kamehameha V., in making his Constitution of 1865 in a way not provided for, to put it mildly, relied, it is said, on the Kamehameha reserved right.

But the royal line of Constitution-makers disappeared with Lunalilo, and the elected sovereign Kalakaua was sovereign solely by virtue of the power given to him by the Constitution itself. The same was true of Liliuokalani. The "aggressiveness" of the latter regime had not the foundation in fact or in law of the old regime.

We shall allude again to this topic in connection with the claim that representative constitutional government was at the mercy of Liliuokalani, because Hawaiians were induced to ask her to throw off constitutional trammels.

Under the querulous caption, "On Which Side?" the Bulletin prints the following:

Walter G. Smith, managing editor of the HAWAIIAN STAR, is correspondent at Honolulu for the San Francisco Chronicle and the Chicago Herald. In a Honolulu despatch in a recent issue of the last-named newspaper appeared a statement by ex-Attorney-General Peterson, and this paragraph followed it:

There is no doubt here that Peterson tells the plain truth in this statement. It is important as showing the part played by Minister Stevens in the conspiracy to overthrow the queen and secure annexation in the first flush of enthusiasm, before the American government should learn the full facts.

The paragraph is not an editorial comment, but a part of Mr. Smith's correspondence. Now, how does Mr. Smith stand? Is he carrying water on both shoulders? Perhaps the managing editor of the STAR can explain.

Mr. Peterson's letter was printed separately from Mr. Smith's correspondence and the comment referred to was written, so far as we know, by Mr. Peterson himself. The Chronicle representative was handed the ex-Attorney-General's essay just before the steamer left and had no time to read it. He sent it on with the annotation—"Unread and unedited," and there his connection with it ended.

THE New York Independent, than which there is no paper more qualified to speak for the thinking class of American citizens, is strongly for annexation. It does not consider the withdrawal of the treaty an unfriendly act on President Cleveland's part, but expresses the belief that he will again send that instrument to the Senate, possibly with some minor changes, and warmly approve its passage. Touching the local sentiment of the islands the Independent says: "We think we know the natives well enough to understand that they are composed of two classes, the one progressive and Christian, the other drunken and enslaved to their Kahunas, or witch doctors. The former, we believe, side with the missionaries and the white natives in desiring annexation; the latter, we understand, side with the New York Herald, the Evening Post, and the late Queen in opposing it."

WHILE the editor of the STAR was writing his revelation of Provisional policy regarding the franchise for that paper, the Chronicle was on its way to Honolulu as fast as the Alameda's engines could carry it, with the editor's exposition of Provisional policy, written before it was found necessary for the party to effect its change of base.—Bulletin.

The editor of the STAR is not and has not been a correspondent of any coast paper. He employs men who write over their signatures to various American journals but what they choose to say in their letters does not commit the STAR in any way. It will be time enough for the royalists to charge the STAR with inconsistency when its editor-in-chief writes one way in one paper and another in this.

THE British side of the island controversy was given to Col. Blount Saturday by ex-Sheriff Hayselden of Maui and Lanai. Mr. Hayselden as son-in-law of Gibson and as a man who has always worked for English and royal domination here, was glad of the chance, which Col. Blount's attentive ear gave him, to free his mind about the "missionaries." It may occur to Col. Blount now—we hope it will—to give the "missionaries" a chance to unburden their minds about Mr. Hayselden. He has been a rather noted man in these parts though not in just the way to commend his advice to an American envoy.

THE resolutions in favor of the suffrage which the Annexation club has passed ought to convince the natives that the reform element has no desire to trespass on their natural rights. No doubt there were those who, at the start, felt that it would be unsafe to give much rope to the Hawaiians, but that idea has been dispelled by the peaceful and intelligent course which the natives have pursued. They have shown themselves capable of law-abiding citizenship and we fully and candidly believe that, if annexation comes, Congress will deal with them in justice and generosity.

BISHOP WILLIS' missionary forces dwindle in the light like Fallstaff's nine men in buckram. A careful count proves that less than one-and-a-half per cent of the members of the Annexation Club have missionary blood in their veins. The STAR trusts that the Bishop will be fair enough, now that he is given to see his error, to notify the natives of Madagascar that there is no cause for alarm. One could not tell what they might do if they were permitted to hold much longer the uneasy views about Hawaiian matters which His Lordship credits them with.

AN Eastern journal wants to know why the American people should "steal an island from a poor old colored woman?" It does seem rather hard, but when the old lady never owned the island and has salted down a fortune while pretending to, the case wears a different aspect. Our esteemed contemporary could make better use of its tearful sympathies by connecting them with a main sewer.

KAILUANI's tender appeals to the American people might have been written by a romantic school girl with her heart full of pangs and her mouth full of caramels. A throne occupied by so languishing a young creature would soon have wads of chewing gum stuck on the back and perfumed valentines piled under the seat. And what a ducal's paradise this would be, to be sure!

The yarn about a restoration is told to stop the native rush to the annexation side. It is merely a political trick, quite worthy of the men who are playing it and without basis in Colonel Blount's purpose or in the logic of the situation. The revolution is going forward and not backward.

Does the Bulletin duplicate its subscription list as it does its advertisements?
